in: Beyond the Binary, Nonbinary, Gender Identities, Gender Fluid

Genderfluid

571 VIEW SOURCE

Genderfluid is a gender identity which refers to a gender which varies over time. A genderfluid person's identity may change constantly, so it's always best to ask what they are in that moment. For instance: You wake up a girl, then you suddenly feel like a boy. This may change dramatically, and rapidly, depends on the person. A common way of gender change is in response to different circumstances. Gender fluid people may also identify as multigender, non-binary, and/or transgender. Genderfluid people may feel more comfortable using gender neutral pronouns and have a androgynous gender expression.

Genderfluid pride flag created by JJ Poole.

Gender fluid people who feel that the strength of their gender(s) change(s) over time, or that they are sometimes agender, demigender, and a full gender may identify as genderflux.

Gender Fluid symbol

See also

- Genderfae, a form of genderfluidity that never includes masculinity.
- Genderfaun, a form of genderfluidity that never includes femininity.
- Genderflor, a form of genderfluidity that never encompasses male, female, masculine, or feminine genders

External links

- nonbinary.wiki
- Genderfluidity Tumblr

Categories

Community content is available under CC-BY-SA unless otherwise noted.

Add a comment about Genderfluid

571 comments

DoctorWho333 • 4h

Hi ! Ive been agender since December 2020, but now I'm questioning again.
See, genderless feels okay and all but at the same time I DO feel like i have a gender, and that it fluctuates.
I don't use/like she/her or they/them for me, but I'm sometimes okay with being called a girl/being seen as feminine; rarely though. There are days in which I feel almost/fully a man, sometimes the thought of me being a man feels wrong. Whatever it is, I dont feel like a binary gender 100%, but I fluctuate between being genderless and non-binary genders.
Could I use this label? I'll probably say im genderfluid but mostly agender

> DoctorWho333 • 4h
>
> Oh oh also, im okay with most fem and masc terms and compliments (except girlfriend/wife, woman, ms./mr. and sir)
> Rarely enough im actually kinda okay with just "girl" lol

Write a reply

Pinkapplecore • 8/20/2021

I'm having a gender crisis atm and i'd appreciate it if anybody on here could help me out! i'm afab and have been identifying as nonbinary (agender specifically) for almost a year and going by any pronouns for a similar amount of time but i'm starting to question my gender again. While i still feel genderless a

Discord server

DISCORD 289 Users Online

USERS

Join Now!

Popular Pages

Join the Fan Labl Fandom's Exclus...

Bigender

Genderfluid

Genderfae

Girlflux

lot of the time, I sometimes feel libramasculine, librafeminine, or bigender. Sometimes I feel like I have no gender but also multiple genders at the same time. Would this count as being genderfluid? If not some suggestions for genders to look more into would be appreciated a lot! Thank you <3

Cottagecheese123 • 5d

Maybe something like genderflux would be better suited? but if not i'm sure there's a label out there that suits you there's literally so many

Write a reply

Dominique002 • 8/18/2021

Can I identify as genderflux and genderfluid?

ConfusedHPNerd • 8/19/2021

There's actually a combination of that called fluidflux :)

NYANYACHRONICLEZ • 5d

Yep!
https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Fluidflux

Fluidflux

GENDER WIKI

Dominique002 • 3d

Thanks!

Write a reply

FrogWithACrown • 8/18/2021

Hey! If there's anyone here that could help me, I'd really appreciate it! So I've been thinking about my gender and pronouns a lot recently and considering a few options. Sometimes I really love being called they/them (like if an online friend doesn't know), but I've used she/her my whole life. I know I'm not Trans, but I am also pretty sure that I'm not totally Cis. Sometimes I feel more feminine (like I want to wear a skirt or something), but sometimes I feel more Gender Neutral or mayyybe a little masc? Masc is pretty rare for sure, and when it does come around, it's very small. I've been considering Demiflux/Genderflux and Genderfluid a lot recently, but I'm not really sure what to go with. If anyone could help me that would me great! <3

(Edited by FrogWithACrown)

Luminouspanda • 20h

Hiiiii, I've literally been experiencing the exact thing that you described and honestly I'm considering just using non-binary and letting people use whatever pronouns they want. Because most of the time it doesn't matter for me. But there are certain times when I reallllllyyyy don't want to be called she/her. So that might also work for you but idkkk, just thought I would share cuz it's always nice to know there are other people that arefeeling the same way or similar to how you are :))))

Write a reply

Melonwt • 8/16/2021

Ive been having a gender crisis recently.
Notes: i was demigirl, i go by all pronouns, im afab
i like being refered to as trans, using the trans flag as my main flag, i have periods where i feel really masculine and sometimes i wanna be male, but then I don't because i still feel connection to my afab (maybe because my body is female? but i still dont want to change it or anything, but ive started to get uncomfortable with it a bit) and change scares me so even changing my look recently scares me the fuck out. but i still love presenting as masculine. i rarely feel feminine. i dont want to be fully transgender or transition to a man, i still want to be refered to as my real name irl and have some association with my afab because again, change scares me a lot. i feel like this might be internalized transphobia but im not sure.

i feel nonbinary too.
I also get gender envy, but its never towards girls, its towards guys, i wanna look like them and present as they do
I love mismatched pronouns and terms, like "he is my girlfriend" a lot.
One of my friends said this may be my other side of demigirl presenting as masculine, but im not sure. ive also done my own research and i feel like it might fall under genderfluid. any help? thanks :)

(Edited by Melonwt)

Write a reply

Owaowa2 • 8/16/2021

Im agender but i oddly like the symbol

Write a reply

1help1 • 8/15/2021

Heya, ive been having a gender crisis for a hot minute so basically i feel like all the genders but none at the same time so I don't think that counts as gender fluid (correct me if I'm wrong) i like to present kinda androgynous right now i go by all pronouns neos included (of course pronouns and gender expression dont equal gender I'm just giving all the info to see if it helps ya know) and ive been going by gender queer is that the right label for me?

> Idontlikethisworld • 8/15/2021
>
> I know that this is not a real answer to ur question BUT i've been feeling the exact same way! I feel like all genders but at the same time as none. So I'm basically stuck between agender and pangender. Most of the time I'm fine with agender but at some point I just know that that's the wrong term. Sometimes I think im genderfluid but that also feels kinda wrong. And that really keeps me really awake at night. :/ I don't know if u can be agender AND pangender tho. But I personally would LOVE to have our own term for "people like us". :) I hope that u know that ur not alone and have a good day! ^^
>
> EDIT:
> So I did another research round and so many ppl say that this feeling is called genderfluidity.
>
> I also found something new too: stargender
> Here is the definition: "No matter how many genders are discovered/coined, none would match for the person."
> That kinda feels like me idk. But there is a problem... this gender is hated soo much and I don't know why. :/ This kinda makes me not wanna use it cuz I'm still a little bit insecure and I don't know much of that gender identity. Maybe it's hurtful for others so I better do more research on it. But yea, that's everything from my side. I really hope that our gender misery comes to an end soon and good night! :D
>
> (Edited by Idontlikethisworld)
>
> > 1help1 • 8/15/2021
> >
> > Wait tahts so cool ive never seen anyone who feels the same way as me :DD and that's cooll i haven't heard stargender be defined that way before ill do research on it aswell i don't think it's hurtful i think the ppl hating are hating on neos:/ ive been looking up panflux aswell though ! its the same as pangender but includes fluctuating feeling between pan bi mono and agender ! but yea i hope u have a great day !! :)) and i hope we both find labels we're comfy with lmao
> >
> > > Zayflore17 • 8/15/2021
> > >
> > > I think you could also be experiencing a form of genderfluidity which is "genderfaunet" which does not fully fall into any gender (enby, male, female, etc) but also fits the feeling you have when it comes to androgyny/femininity/masculinity :) I hope this helps a bit

Write a reply

Mudmaudel • 8/5/2021

So, i'm AFAB, and have identified as nonbinary for a while, but im beginning to question myself again

Honestly i couldnt give less of a shit about gender, people can call me whatever the hell they want as long as i know theyre talking to me and i'll be a happy camper regardless. but sometimes i still kinda feel my AGAB, and predominantly want to present feminine. does this make me genderfluid? if not, does anyone know a better-fitting label?

Eli.exe1005 • 8/8/2021

@Mudmaudel hil so i'll send you some static and fluid/fluctuating genders because you don't seem to necessarily know from what I understand? First of all though, please keep in mind that what you feel like wearing doesn't necessarily mean gender, unless for example you use clothing to tell what gender you feel if you realize you indeed are genderfluid. And as the wiki mentions, for some genderfluid people, their gender changes rapidly, but for some genderfluid people their gender can randomly not change for days, weeks, months, or even years. Now, let me give you some ideas. If you feel genderfluid but only on the female side of the spectrum, you could try genderfae/genderdoe/genderthil (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Genderfae) or if you never feel fully like a binary male {example; demiboy} maybe genderfaer (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Genderfaer). If you'd like, you can also check genderflux and girlflux if you feel the intensity of femininity changes instead of the whole gender altogether (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Genderflux https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Girlflux). If you feel like your genders consist of nonbinary and female at the same time (static) or may fluid/fluctuate between the two you can try bigender or bigenderflux (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Bigenderflux https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Bigender) {if you feel theres three or more theres stuff like trigender, etc if you prefer those labels}. Theres also maybe paragender [paragirl]? I'm really unsure if thats what you're describing but I want to put as many options as possible for you to look at (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Paragender). There's also possibly librafeminine (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Librafeminine) Oh and lets not forget demigirl/demigender (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Demigirl), which I should mention, demigender is part of one gender, but that doesnt mean the other part has to be another gender, you can just be part female and thats it. Oh, and another mention for that, if you feel those parts are on a percentage or a scale, female doesn't have to be higher. Your other gender can overweigh the girl/female part. If not, on the LGBTA wiki I found something called pangenderfae (https://lgbta.wikia.org/wiki/Pangenderfae). This is as far as I can remember, but heres a quick note. You can combine labels if you want (as long as they align and aren't meant to insult anyone of course). You can also use other labels or umbrella terms if you prefer. Labels are what you feel comfortable with. By the way, I showed you mostly the female side of the gender spectrum, but most of these have the male alternative/the gender neutral alternative if you want to look for that. Ps; if those labels don't feel right for you nor do any labels you might find, you can use nonbinary still! Not only is nonbinary a gender, yes, but as an umbrella term, nonbinary is every gender that isn't considered, well, as only a static binary gender. But if you think that doesn't feel right, you can also use genderqueer! (https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Genderqueer). If you have any questions, feel free to add a reply and i'll try to answer as soon as possible!

(Edited by Eli.exe1005)

leetsoap • 8/9/2021

I know this reply wasn't for me but omg it helped me a lot lmfaol I'm so happy I stumbled across it tyty!!

Write a reply

Azure83 • 8/4/2021

Ha haaaaaa gedner crisis again □□

I think I may be genderfluid. I currently identify as they/she bigender, but I like being called by nouns typically reserved for males, such as sir or mr. I'm not sure how I feel about being called by he/him but I don't really care? Is there a term for only maybe male?

Eli.exe1005 • 8/8/2021

Pronouns don't equal gender and it's okay to like terms for 'a specific gender' as well :) Although if you really think you might be genderfluid with barely masculinity, maybe go check out genderfaer https://gender.wikia.org/wiki/Genderfaer

Genderfaer

GENDER WIKI

Write a reply

AjaxThePog • 8/4/2021

Can I be abrogender and genderfluid? /gq

> Eli.exe1005 • 8/8/2021
>
> @AjaxThePog Of course! They mean something very similar after all. Labels are what you feel comfy with, so go ahead!

Write a reply

PJ0shifter • 8/3/2021

(Edited by PJ0shifter)

Write a reply

leetsoap • 7/31/2021

I'm looking for a term that suits how I feel out of pure curiosity, and this one seems do suit the best I think - but if anyone has another suggestion I'm all eyes lmfao.

So, I have recently discovered that pronouns don't really mean much to me - I'm born a female and I identify as bisexual but am not confined to just liking men and women, I just like people - although in saying that - have never been attracted to anyone romantically. I wouldn't be mad or even correct someone if they referred to me as "he" or "they" even though atm (mainly due to fear of judgement or questioning) I look very feminine. Even any other pronouns out there they saw fit for me, I wouldn't mind. I'm just me, and however someone else see's myself - I really don't mind. I would like to add though //TW ED// for the next part - I won't go into detail. I did develop an eating disorder in order to control my body's growth rate during puberty because the thought of have a really feminine body scared me - but in saying that - I like to dress and act feminine sometimes now, even after recovery. The changes aren't that obvious but they are just something I notice regarding my own mindset - sometimes my voice will naturally be more feminine and other times it will go very monotone - and it's a subconscious thing I don't realising happening until it does. Idk maybe i'm just a based chameleon lmfao. If you've read all this - ty for your time :)

> AjaxThePog • 8/4/2021
>
> Maybe your agender and aromantic? I'm not rlly a pro but look up the terms and see what u think! If not agender then maybe pan gender?
>
> > leetsoap • 8/9/2021
> >
> > Holy moly pangender seems very similar to how I'm feeling - I thought gender fluid was accurate enough but this is much more fitting thank you so much!!! Aromantic makes sense but in the long run I do hope to eventually find a s/o so i'm not too sure but ig that's why I'm here lmfao. THANKS again and have a great day!
> >
> > leetsoap • 8/9/2021
> >
> > Actually - pangender isn't sitting right on it's own - This might be a dumb question but do u think using both labels could be an option?
> >
> > > Genderidentitycrisischeck • 8/14/2021
> > >
> > > Of course you can use both labels! Gender is just a spectrum and you can use whatever terms you want!

Write a reply

Cloovery • 7/31/2021

Hii confused genderfluid person here, if someone were to oppress a someone whos genderfluid would you say its transphobia or just homophobia ?

Crispycow08 • 8/2/2021

Transphobic. non-binary and anything that is not relating to the two binary female and male genders is put under the trans umbrella. If you were to oppress anyone from the non-binary umbrella you would be transphobic. It can also be labeled as homophobic but i think you would refer to it as transphobic. Im not super skilled on all of this so take this with a grain of salt :)

Write a reply

XWitch.Boix • 7/30/2021

(Edited by XWitch.Boix)

Write a reply

Bwsk • 7/26/2021

If a straight person dates a person who is gender fluid, is the straight person still straight or ?

AriaTheRoyal • 7/27/2021

It depends. Sometimes, sexuality is more based on biological sex. So if the gender fluid person is the opposite biological sex, then sure, you can consider them straight. The straight person may also be attracted to the gender fluid person only when they are a certain gender. But if the straight person is attracted to the gender fluid person no matter what their gender is, then no, the straight person would technically not be straight. But this can end up in one of those "im a little bit gay" situations as the straight person can be like many other straights and be just a little not-straight.

If the straight person is still attracted to the opposite gender, they'd still be straight. Their sexuality is not determined by one person that goes outside of their sexuality.

Write a reply

Orphicpixie • 7/25/2021

How do I combine genderfluid and stargender? do I say stargenderfluid?

Pretentioustea1 • 7/26/2021

You can go with whatever you want to use!

Write a reply

MAG707 • 7/24/2021

Im in a dilemma right now, help would be appreciated if you have any ideas
But like- on days i feel more feminine- i guess i want to look female more, i act more feminine, etc- but other days i feel more masculine- i'm born as female, so that just starts up my body dysphoria- and so i hide literally any markers that may make me seem feminine (and it doesnt work, heck sakes) i used to be fine with any pronouns (neopronouns excluded) and then i just suddenly started hating she/her pronouns (that was like.. 5 days ago roughly) and im just confused with myself now is all. does this mean im genderfluid?? i had a chat with my closest friend but she isnt all that familiar with genders
I dont know if this helps with anything, but i'm ace?? i love relationships and i enjoy hugs but i dont want a romantic relationship is all
I just have really bad habits of questioning things and living in denial for unhealthy amounts of time so like someone pull the snap back to reality meme on me please

Pretentioustea1 • 7/25/2021

Hi! I apologize in advance if this advice sucks, but I'll try my best to help.

I think (personally) it might be ok to just take your time and try to figure things out. There have been times (for me (i'm girlflux by the way)) where I kind of get "stuck" (i guess) in a certain gender identity for a couple days, and I start intensely questioning what was going on. For me though, it usually passed in a couple days. So waiting it out, doing a bit of personal reflection (that sounds like really cheesy generic advice... sorry!) and thinking a lot is option.

I also think there is quite a bit of merit in doing some research on other terms to try to figure out if there is anything that you identify with more. Look into other terms and such. From your description (this might be wrong though!) you could have maybe changed how you identify??? (maybe? im not entirely sure) so you could look into other terms (demiboy, bigender, genderfluid, genderflux, maybe even just identifying as male persay (idk if you still feel you identify with nonbinary, etc. genders/aspects)).

Also you can experiment with different terms, try them out, see if they work, and if they don't, you can always try something else. You can also mix terms and use more then one!

So yes, you could totally use genderfluid if you want to/feel like that fits. In the end, I think your gender identity is something you should feel comfortable with, and as long as you feel comfortable with it, that's all that matters. So remember to take your time, try not to stress too much (i know it's probably hard, but try? ^^), and you don't have to stick with what you've always gone with, your gender identification can always change. It's really most important to make sure you feel comfortable with yourself.

Anyway, I hope this helped, even if it was only a tiny part of it. I hope you have a nice day! :)

MAG707 • 7/25/2021

See now my problem is that i'm really impatient with getting answers sometimes
But, your advice is really good! i'll do some more research. thanks a lot for taking time out of your day to give me some advice :) i'll look into it, but i'll try not to overthink it either
Once again, thanks a lot!! i wish you a nice day as well :D

Pretentioustea1 • 7/26/2021

You're welcome! I'm so glad I could help! ^^

Write a reply

Lov369 • 7/24/2021

If your gender changes like everyday will it still be classified as genderfluid?

Logicallytimetraveler • 7/24/2021

Yep.

Write a reply

DFMNE404 • 7/22/2021

This
https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=zec1E-MLmuU
Is exactly what I am

Write a reply

Chaoslovesong • 7/19/2021

Okay I'm really confused

I'm okay with being identified as a boy and a girl, I'm also okay with being called with masculine terms and feminine terms, I also go by any pronouns (neopronouns included). long story short, I'm okay with anything. a part of me feels comfy with identifying as genderfluid but I'm not really sure if that's the correct label for me.

MKCheerful • 7/21/2021

Check out pangender possibly? :)

Write a reply

LOAD MORE COMMENTS

Fan Feed

More Gender Wiki

1. Demiboy
2. Bigender
3. Genderfluid

Latest Discussions

View All

Tomatojuiceham help please in General ♡0 ◌0

Femmescorpia
Discord
in General ♡0 ◌0

IWASNTONTHISWEBSITEISWEAR
Gender Help??? in gender questions ♡1 ◌3

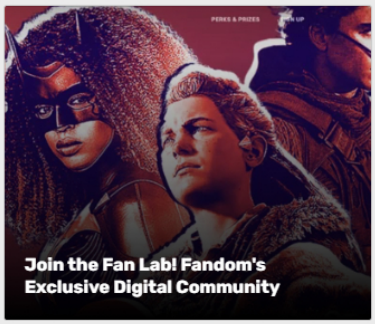
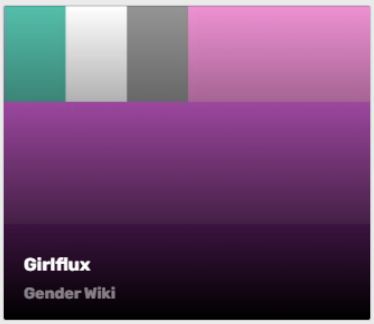
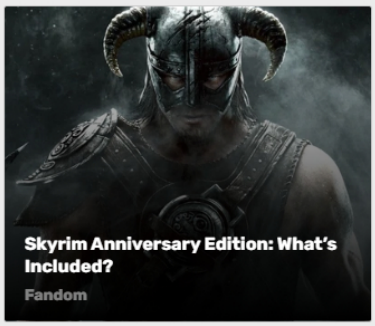
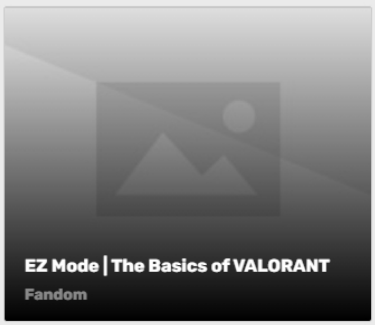
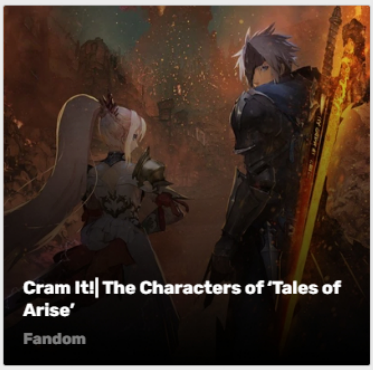
Krynnza
Hi! I was wondering how I would be able to make a new wiki page or submit a gender? Thanks!

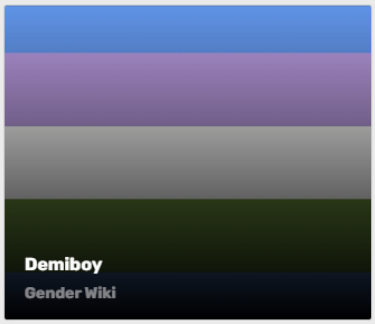


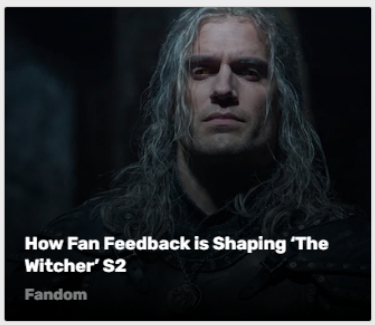


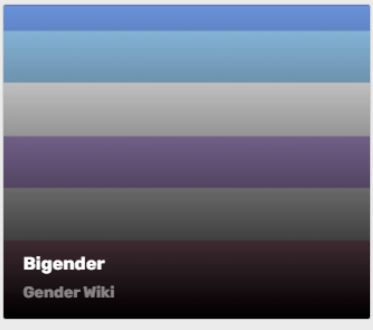


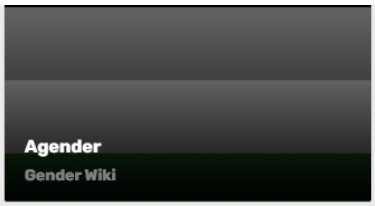


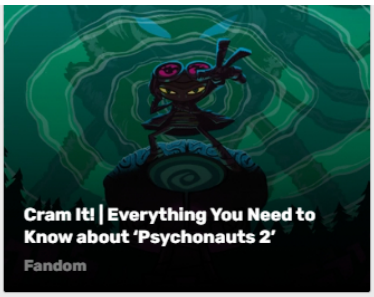










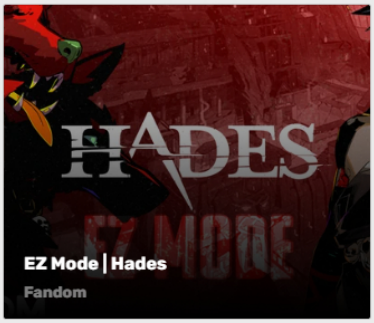


Explore Wikis

Universal Conquest Wiki

Let's Go Luna! Wiki

Club 57 Wiki



wikia.org

Terms of Use • Privacy Policy • Support • Help